Slow-melting ice cream ingredient discovered by scientists	1
A new ingredient has been developed by scientists in Scotland, which could mean that ice-cream lovers can enjoy their ice-creams a bit longer before they melt. A naturally occurring protein can be used to create ice cream, which stays frozen for longer in _____ weather.	2 3 4
The scientists estimate that the slow-melting product could become available to shops in three to five years.	5 6 7
The project leader, Professor Cait MacPhee, of the University of Edinburgh's school of physics and astronomy, said: "it's not completely non-melting because you do want your ice cream to be cold. It will melt eventually but hopefully by keeping it stable for longer it will stop the drips." Professor MacPhee said it works by keeping oil and water mixed together, stopping air from escaping and coating the ice crystals in ice cream, which stops them from melting so quickly.	8 9 10 11 12 13 14
Professor MacPhee told BBC Radio 5 live: "there is a natural protein already used in food preparation for some foods and by using this protein we're replacing some of the fat molecules that are currently used with these oil and water mixtures so it can reduce the fat content, but it shouldn't make the ice-cream taste any different."	15 16 17 18 19
Professor MacPhee added that this process could reduce the sugar content in ice-cream and could be used in other foods such as chocolate mousse and mayonnaise to help reduce the calories.	20 21 22 23

Does lack of sleep make you more likely to catch a cold?	1
People who sleep six hours a night or less are more at risk of catching a cold when exposed to the virus, research has found. For one week, 164 healthy volunteers were asked to wear a wrist sensor that tracked their normal sleep habits.	2 3 4
Drops were then put in their nose containing viruses that cause a cold; the volunteers were then kept in a hotel for five days under close observation to see how many got a cold.	5 6 7 8
The results suggest that people who get little sleep each night are more likely to catch a cold than those who sleep for more than seven hours a night. Getting broken sleep at night did not appear to make any difference; it was just the quantity of sleep per _____.	9 10 11 12 13
Lead researcher Dr Aric Prather, from the University of California in San Francisco, said that “it didn't matter how old people were, their stress levels, their race, education or income. It didn't matter if they were a smoker.” It was the amount and quality of sleep that had the biggest impact on the chance of catching a cold. Poor sleep has been linked to other illnesses and obesity. Dr Prather has previously said that sleep may limit the effectiveness of _____.	14 15 16 17 18 19 20
Experts say most people need about eight hours of good-quality sleep a night to function properly – but some need more and some less.	21 22 23

Loch Ness and the Loch Ness monster

You should not visit Scotland without going to Loch Ness. Loch Ness is over 20 miles long, a mile wide and 700 feet at its deepest. Loch Ness is the largest lake in Scotland by volume. The area around Loch Ness is filled with historic attractions, natural wonders, places to stay and good local restaurants. The Loch Ness Monster is just one of the many myths and legends to be discovered in this particularly beautiful part of Scotland.

The legend of the Loch Ness Monster has been around since the sixth century, when Irish monk Saint Columba witnessed locals burying a man who had been attacked by a 'water beast'. Nothing was seen until a report of a monster in the Northern Chronicle of 27th August 1930, which described fishermen in a boat on Loch Ness being "disturbed" by an 18 feet long creature.

But it was the famous sighting in 1933, when George Spicer and his wife claimed they saw 'a most extraordinary form of animal', which was 4ft high and 25ft long crossing the road near the loch, that started Nessie mania.

The central location of Loch Ness makes the area a perfect destination for holidays in the Scottish Highlands – all within easy reach of Scotland's fastest growing city, Inverness.

Luxury apartment blocks to be linked by glass-bottomed pool suspended 115 feet in the air	1
A pair of luxury apartment blocks will be linked by a swimming pool suspended 115 feet in the air. Embassy Gardens is a Thames-side development in Battersea which will be made up of around 2,000 homes including three-bedroom suites and penthouses starting at £602,000.	2 3 4 5 6 7
Ballymore and Eco World, who are working on the plot, have produced plans for the 'Sky Pool'. This includes a riverfront walk threading between Embassy Gardens to Battersea Park, a boutique hotel and a number of bars, restaurants and shops for residents to enjoy.	8 9 10 11 12
The chairman of Ballymore Group, Sean Mulryan, described the plans as 'truly unique'. He said: 'My vision for the Sky Pool stemmed from a desire to do something that had never been done before. At Ballymore we like to push the boundaries on all aspects of design, the Sky Pool's transparent structure is the result of significant advancements in technologies over the last decade'.	13 14 15 16 17 18
Sean added that 'the experience of the pool will feel like floating through the air in central London.' The buildings linked by the pool are part of the second phase of the development, which will be released to market in September.	19 20 21 22
Buyers will be able to move into the properties in 2018.	23
