

DES

Dietschi Educational Services

workshops

SATURDAY, 3 SEPTEMBER 2016, 18.00 - 21.00

DIVANI CARAVEL HOTEL, ILISSOS ROOM
VAS. ALEXANDROU AVE 2, ATHENS

PRACTICAL IDEAS FOR EXTENSIVE READING

In this session we will first examine ideas about how it is possible to set up an extensive reading programme in schools and with an individual class. We will then work our way through a series of interesting and effective ideas for handling extensive reading texts inside and outside the classroom.

Participants will go home with a range of practical ways of implementing extensive reading into their classes.

Provided Certification of Attendance

Participation Fee € 30

David A. Hill has worked in education since 1970, in British primary schools, then in English language and literature teaching. He has lived and worked in Italy (14 years), ex-Yugoslavia (6 years) and Hungary (18 years). He spent 18 years with The British Council, and 27 summers training teachers in the UK for Pilgrims, NILE, BELL and the British Council. He has worked in over 40 countries around the world and written more than 90 sets of published materials for learners and teachers. David has had 4 original readers and many adaptations of classics published. For 28 years he was involved with IATEFL, holding several posts, lastly as Coordinator of the Literature, Media & Cultural Studies SIG (2008-14). In 2014-15 he selected the materials for the Books on Wheels project for Greece.

Since the number of participants is limited please book your seat as early as possible at www.des.org.gr

DES - Dietschi Educational Services

Chariton 5, GR 17564 Paleo Faliro, Tel. +30 211 715 7375, info@des.org.gr